

In a message to the Vermont Nuclear Decommissioning Citizens Advisory Panel, former Public Service Department Commissioner Chris Recchia said that while Vermont obviously disagreed with the continued operation of the facility, everyone's efforts at ensuring safe plant operations this past year, as well as the efforts of all to meet the scheduled shutdown consistent with the settlement agreement, were appreciated. "I look forward to working constructively with everyone on the timely transfer of fuel to dry cask storage and ultimate decontamination and dismantlement of the property as soon as possible," Recchia added.